

CLINICAL TRIAL LEADERSHIP

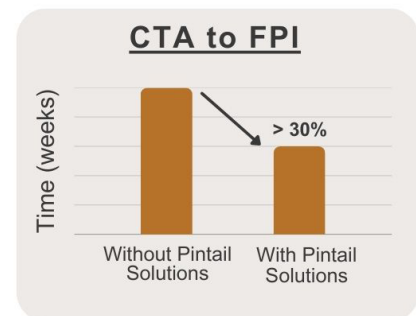

Understanding the benefit and burden across trial participants, clinical trial sites, and sponsors is absolutely critical. Executing trials on time is increasingly difficult. Ensuring trials are representative of the populations they intend to treat is expected by regulatory agencies. Pintail Solutions' clinical trial experts understand that study success begins well before the first trial participant is recruited. Ensuring the protocol can be effectively executed across sites is critical, and vetting and selecting the right sites is paramount. Sites that activate faster recruit more participants. Leveraging novel recruitment tactics ensures studies enroll according to plan. Engaging sites and effectively managing trial execution processes are critical to consistent, quality delivery.
